Prior to pupillage, Sophie volunteered for the University of Law's Legal Advice Clinics where she worked on various housing and probate issues.

Before converting to law, as a Parliamentary Researcher Sophie worked on constituency cases relating to housing allocation schemes and housing prioritisation.

Commercial & Arbitration

Prior to pupillage, Sophie worked for two years as a Graduate Lawyer (Awaiting English Bar Qualification) in the International Arbitration team of a leading US law firm. She worked on high value, complex commercial disputes including energy sector, shareholder, shipping and product liability matters.

During pupillage Sophie has furthered her experience of commercial matters, including:

- Bankruptcy and insolvency proceedings, including advising on matters where there are issues of transactions at an undervalue and transactions defrauding creditors
- Contractual disputes, including both small claims and higher value disputes
- Shareholder disputes, including claims for unfair prejudice
- Employment law matters, including claims for direct and indirect discrimination, victimisation, harassment and detriments relating to protected disclosure

Arbitration experience:

- Representing the claimant in multiple arbitrations (LCIA) arising out of shareholder agreements related to family businesses.
- Representing the claimant in a consolidated series of arbitrations (LMAA) relating to the sale of ten commercial shipping vessels.
- Representing the respondent in an arbitration (ICC) arising out of contracts for the supply and sale of iron ore pellets.
- Representing the respondent in an arbitration (ICC) arising out of a long-term Joint Venture Agreement.
- Representing a regional government of a Middle Eastern state in a commercial arbitration (LCIA) in relation to gas extraction projects.
- Advising an arbitrator in relation to s.72 Arbitration Act 1996 in an arbitration (LCIA) regarding the breach of an interface agreement between a railway holding company and two national governments.

Previous commercial experience:

- Advising a regional government of a Middle Eastern state regarding a crude oil purchase and sale contract.
- Advising a regional government of a Middle Eastern state regarding oil and gas shipping contracts.
- Advising a client regarding a licence agreement dispute for medical technology.
- Leading on a long-term, multi-jurisdictional pro bono project concerning product liability in the cosmetics industry.

Background:

Prior to pupillage, Sophie worked for two years as a Graduate Lawyer (Awaiting English Bar Qualification) in the International Arbitration team of a leading US law firm in London.
